Bongo He's My Boy!

Bongo hes my boy, I love him

so much.

Bongo is my boxer lab mix. He's black all over exeped in one spot on his chest. Because of that we were going to name him ocho. But instead we named him Bongo.

I think he's one of the funniest dog I've ever met. He is also smart very smart. I think he's smart because when he sees us eat, he puts his head down and blinks like he's starving. Hes smart because when he was in the back seat of the car, on a winding road he walked up to the passenger seat and threw up out the window. He's smart because he knows when were mad or sad.

When I'm around Bongo, he make me feel safe. Even though he barks at everything. I think it will come in handy someday.

One of his most favorite things to do is go to the park and have us throw frizbies. When we throw the frizbies, he almost always catches it. He can jump almost 5 feet in the air to catch it.

Sometimes when he jumps he does a twist trying to catch it. Or he can swipe it just inches off the ground.

He's 2 years old. He turned 2 on April 21, 2006. We got him at a boxer rescue. He was about 3 months old.

He was the last in the litter.

Fongo is my most favorite dog in the world ever.
